What is Stake?

Staking is when you lock crypto assets for a set period of time to help support the operation of a blockchain. In return for staking your crypto, you earn more cryptocurrency.

Many blockchains use a proof of stake consensus mechanism. Under this system, network participants who want to support the blockchain by validating new transactions and adding new blocks must "stake" set sums of cryptocurrency.

Should You Stake Crypto?

Staking is a good option for investors interested in generating yield.

How Does Staking Work?

Staking is a good option for investors

If you own a cryptocurrency that uses a proof of stake blockchain, you are eligible to stake your tokens. Staking locks up your assets to participate and help maintain the security of that network's blockchain. In exchange for locking up your assets and participating in the network validation, validators receive rewards in that cryptocurrency known as staking rewards.

Our Exchange Partners

A crypto exchange is a marketplace, where financial securities issued by companies are bought and sold. They are part of the broader capital market ecosystem. Securities issued by companies, such as shares and bonds, are traded on the crypto exchanges, after they have been issued in the primary market
